

West 2/3

By TY Tan

I have been writing about fortunate natural water and mountain settings around a property facing various directions in the last few issues. I will continue in this issue with the fortunate feng shui settings of houses facing the second and third sub-sectors of West, i.e. those properties facing 262.5 degrees to 292.5 degrees.

Natural external water and mountain settings around a property is the key factor as to whether a property has good or bad feng shui, as we cannot move or relocate natural water and mountains even when their setting is incorrect.

To improve the feng shui of properties with incorrect settings, we can apply feng shui techniques to remedy the situation on our internal setting.

For properties facing between 262.5 degrees to 292.5 degrees built after February 2004, they are in moderately good directions. The following will improve the properties' feng shui settings:

1. Good external landscape

- Big, beautiful natural water located in the West direction that commands a distant small mountain view
- Big, beautiful mountain in the North East direction
- Beautiful water coming from the North West passing through the West and going to the South West

2. Good internal layout

- The West, South East and North sections of the house should be well-connected
- Main door located in the West area

3. Colour scheme

The qi of the house can be improved by having the following colour schemes:

- Blue or black in the North East and North West sections of the house
- Lots of gold-coloured items in the North and South East sections

A building such as this is considered to have moderately good feng shui for those residing in it in terms of wealth, health and career advancement for the year 2004 through 2023. However, to enhance wealth luck, a water feature should be placed in the West sector.
